

From Governor Bob McDonnell – “Please Help Philippine Victims of Typhoon Haiyan”

As you know, Typhoon Haiyan recently struck the nation, killing thousands and leaving millions in desperate need of food, water and medicine: the basic necessities of life. The people of the Philippines need our help.

Today I’m asking, if you have the means, if you’d consider a donation to the American Red Cross, the Philippine Red Cross, or UNICEF: three trustworthy organizations working in the area to rush aid and supplies directly to those who need them the most. You can contribute through the links below, and, again, I thank you for all that you do for our Commonwealth, country and, the world. Americans are always at their best when times are at their worst. Your help will make a difference!

Sincerely,

Bob McDonnell
Governor of Virginia

Philippine Red Cross: <http://www.redcross.org.ph/donate>
American Red Cross: <http://www.redcross.org/charitable-donations>
UNICEF: <http://www.unicefusa.org/>